BUREAU OF THE MINT

Washington, October 21, 1899.

Anella Smith,
No. 1069 Camp Street,
New Orleans, La.

Your letter of October 18th is at hand. I can hardly think that the Board of Examiners at New Orleans have been guilty of discrimination in marking the examination papers of applicants. So far as educational examination is concerned the papers are or should be simply numbered and not bear the name of the candidates, consequently the Board in marking them would not be likely to know the names to which the several papers belonged. I understand that there is one colored man upon the Board at New Orleans and he would not be likely to tolerate discrimination for color. However, I expect to be in New Orleans before long and I shall make some further inquiries on the subject.

Respectfully yours,

Director of the Mint.

Madam:

Your letter of October 18th is at hand. I can hardly think that the Board of Examiners at New Orleans have been guilty of discrimination in marking the examination papers of applicants. So far as the educational examination is concerned the papers are or should be simply numbered and not bear the name of the candidates, consequently the Board in marking them would not be likely to know the race to which the several papers belonged. I understand that there is one colored man upon the Board at New Orleans and he would not be likely to tolerate discrimination for color. However, I expect to be in New Orleans before long and I shall make some further inquiries on the subject.

Respectfully yours,
Geo. E. Roberts
Director of the Mint.
